STAND BY THE ISSUES.

There are forced upon the people of this country two all-important political issues,—one is the question of an honest currency which involves the public faith and credit; and the other is the protection of every man, white or black, high or low, in the use of the ballot, and in the possession of his property. On both of these questions the Republican party is the only political organization in the country which is united. Ever since the controversy arose regarding a safe and sound currency the Republicans put themselves on the side of honest money, and from the very birth of the party in 1856 till now, it has never wavered in its demand for universal freedom and suffrage. In the North the issue between the parties is principally that of finance. The Democrats are divided and are sailing on a political sea without compass or rudder. The Greenbackers are making a struggle to inflate the volume of currency by the issue of millions of paper which the Government shall never promise to redeem. Standing as a mighty force to protect the people's money, to defend the nation's faith, and to thwart the purposes of the Democracy in crushing the negro voters of the South and in disfranchising the Republicans of the Southern States, is the Republican party which has won more political battles, done more for the human race, accomplished more for the workingman, than any political organization that ever had an existence in this or any other country. Its history is brilliant with grand successes, and though it has wiped out the curse of slave labor, reconstructed the States, and has given the people the best currency we ever had, its mission is not ended. There are those who attempt to make freedom a farce, and who are endeavoring to prostitute the paper money of the country.

The Republicans are called upon to stand by the issues. Every inch of ground gained in the struggle of twenty eight years, shall be firmly held. The party has carried the nation through civil war, through financial disaster growing out of that war, and every month and every year the country is growing richer and stronger.

There is now more property, more real money, more miles of railways, more manufacturers, more products of the farm, in the country than in any previous year of our history. The public debt is being reduced, taxation is growing lighter, government expenses are being decreased, the balance of trade with foreign countries is hundreds of millions in our favor, and the national credit abroad, was never so good as now. The Republican party has brought this condition of things about, and it does not propose to leave the nation at the mercy of the party whose garments are stained by innocent blood, and whose record is blackened by treason and crime. Republicans stand by the issues which to day are as supreme as they were eighteen years ago. Keep the government in the hands of the party which saved it, and which is sworn to protect the national treasury against the raid of the Democratic party, which to day has hundreds of millions of southern claims waiting for an opportune moment for payment. Stand by a free ballot, no matter whether the voter lives in Mississippi or Wisconsin. Stand by an honest paper currency which can hold up its head, march abreast with gold itself, and demand the same confidence and respect.

The intelligent and industrious Milwaukee correspondent of the Chicago Tribune gives to that paper a very careful survey of the political situation in this State, and in commenting on the First District says: "In the First District the Democrats are altogether unreconciled to the endorsement of Parker, the Greenback candidate, and he will get considerably less than the regular Democratic vote, probably but little in excess of one-half. The Democrats regard their outlook as altogether bad in the district. The Greenbackers will run separate tickets for members of the Legislature and for county officers in Kenosha, Racine and Waukesha counties, so that it is extremely doubtful whether the Democrats will elect a member of the Legislature or even a portion of their county ticket in either county. They do not see any way out of their trouble. If they should endorse the Greenback Legislative and county candidates, they cannot share more than half their votes in that direction, as they are powerless to control it on Congressmen."

The condition of the State government of Missouri is more deplorable at the present time than ever known in the previous history of the State. It has been humiliated and disgraced by the present Democratic administration, and the people are imploring for a change. The removal of Postmaster Filley, of St. Louis, who kept the Republican party divided in Missouri, will give the Republicans there an opportunity to do the State a noble service by entering into the campaign with one common purpose, united and strong, and defeating the party which has disgraced the State both in Congress and in administering the affairs of the treasury.

Woodford county, Illinois, has been thrown into a fever heat by the discovery that the Treasurer, A. M. Whitaker, is short in his accounts about $30,000. A committee is investigating the master. Whitaker made a desperate endeavor to get possession of some of the receipts which were in possession of one of the members of the committee, and a struggle ensued, in which the Treasurer tore the receipts in two, but was finally knocked down and dragged off. Whitaker has served two terms and has been laying his wires for a third election. Suffice it to say that in politics he is a mongrel, being a Democratic Greenbacker.

A few weeks ago a gang of tramps boarded a freight train on the Chicago & Northwestern railway at Fulton, Illinois, and driving off the trainmen took complete possession forcing the engineer to obey their orders. Some of the gang were captured and have just had their trial. Two were sentenced to the penitentiary for seven years, four for four years each, and one for one year. A few more such examples may teach this class of vicious idlers that there is a law which must not be trifled with.

Kearney, the notorious sand-lot mouth, is howling against hard money, and yet at the close of his harangue he views with evident satisfaction the pouring of silver quarters and halves into his ragged hand, which he holds forth for charitable contributions, "to pay his expenses and support his family." He does not object to silver then, and quietly chuckles to himself as he counts the clinking coin, that it pays better to shoot one's self home than to drive a dray.

In accordance with the determination of the citizens to force people to leave the city, no rations were issued to-day, except to persons who had sick ones in the family.

A proclamation will be published in the morning papers notifying the public that camps will be formed and that those who expect to receive rations must take up their residence there until the city is free of fever.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 9.—The fever has broken out at several new points in the State, viz.: Bolton Lake, Lawrence Station (on the Vicksburg and Meridian Railroad), Gilmore Station (on the New Orleans road), and Dry Grove, in Hinds county.

It has been a long time since any speech of a political character has been delivered in this country, which will have so good effect, and which has been so extensively circulated and generally read as that of Secretary Sherman's delivered at Toledo, on the 26th of August. A more intelligent convincing, and unanswerable public address has not been made for many years. The Secretary has certainly done the country a service in making it.

The Grand United Order of Odd Fellows make an appeal to all lodges in the country for aid. Send donations to Edward J. Holmes, Chairman of the relief committee.

Rainey has the courage to stump South Carolina for the Republicans cause, and thus defies the wrath of the Democrats. Free speech in the South is a thorn in the Democratic flesh in South Carolina.

The Virginian farmer who wrote to the Treasury Department at Washington for a loan of $150 for a year, with which to buy a pair of mules, took his political lessons from Ben Butler and Sam Cary.

It is a high compliment to American industries that Australia sends hitherto for locomotives for the railroads being built there. Three more were shipped from New York yesterday.

Paris Thieves.

An adroitness of thieves have been "working" Paris with the deaf "racket." An old gentleman arrived at a wine-shop at the hour when it was most crowded, and gave an order. When his liquor was brought to him he cried out in the high, harsh tones so often noticed among the deaf that he had not been given what he had asked for; then having thus secured the attention of the guests proceeded to make inquiries about an imaginary resident of the neighborhood. He shouted, and the waiter had to bellow in reply, and as the deaf man made the most ludicrous mistakes in attempting to catch his meaning everybody laughed, and the merry customers grieved the poor man to their hearts' content till he got angry and departed. Meanwhile his accomplices had broken into the upper stories of the wine-shops and riddled them during the confusion. Oyer-robberies of this kind had been committed when M. Jacob, the famous head of the detective service pounced on the gang. He had seen three men slip into a doorway at dusk while a fourth entered the wine shop, and followed the latter, giving orders to the other officers to secure the accomplices. Singing to a policeman to accompany him, Jacob entered that shop, and just as the man with his ear, was bawling, "London—I'm deaf," he remarked in an ordinary tone of voice, "This officer'll escort you to the police surgeon." The deaf man drew a knife and attempted to dash out, but Jacob knocked him down with his life-preserver and handcuffed him. All four men proved to be notorious thieves; subsequently five others, including two women, were taken. About 6,000 francs in money, together with jewels, watches and an immense quantity of valuable goods, clothing, etc., was found at their headquarters.

TENNYSON'S BIRTHPLACE.

An Interesting Visit to the Spot by One of Janesville's Citizens.

SURRY, LINCOLNSHIRE, ENGLAND, 1 August 31, 1878.

DEAR GAZETTE.—I am still rustication here, getting my health, and making continuous incursions into the country. Amongst other places of attraction I have visited the birthplace of Alfred Tennyson—the poet laureate of England. It is at the beautiful village of Somersby in this county. The house is a very old one, two stories high, seven windows in front, four below—three at the upper part. It is double roofed and is colored buff. His bed-room is at the east end, and is a bare whitewashed room. The study, in which I write this, is at the west end of the house and is a bare whitewashed room also, with bare rafters painted black, an is in the attic, next to the tiles, and is far from being an inviting, or poetic place. It is approached by a very difficult staircase. Here the poet spent a great portion of his time, when not in the fields, which he loved so well. The house and parish belong to the Burton family who reside in it. To Mr. Harry Burton I was indebted for the privilege of making a thorough examination of the house and premises. The stable and out houses are in the rear. The six celebrated elms are at the east end of the house, and are fine large trees. Mr. Baumber, (John Baumber) with whom I spent two days, was the schoolmate and playfellow of Tennyson, and gave me many an account of their boyish days. He said Tennyson was always looked upon as the laziest and biggest blockhead among his own family, and the boys of the parish. Mr. Baumber informed me that when a man, and studying deeply, he would spend a whole week or more in bed, scarcely ever leaving it, and never, in the whole time, leaving the room. Tennyson's father was a Doctor of Divinity, and a Justice of the Peace. He had eight sons and four daughters, all of whom were educated by himself. He was an eccentric man, and did many strange and queer things. Alfred Tennyson married a Miss Selwood, of Hoochastle. He was several children grown up, one of whom, a son has just got married. Somersby is one of the prettiest villages in Lincolnshire, just the spot for a poet. Mr. Baumber is one of Tennyson's characters in the Northern Farmer, and lived in Somersby Hall, adjoining Tennyson's house. Here is one of the crosses that have been erected by Edward the first, on the spot where the remains of his Queen, Eleanor, were borne on their way to London. These crosses mark the resting places up to the King's Cross and Charing Cross in London, and are in different states of preservation. This one being quite perfect. It is 13¹/₂ feet high of one main shaft, the crucifix on one side and the Virgin Mary on the other. Close to this cross are buried the father and mother and some other members of Tennyson's family. The poet now lives in the Isle of Wight, and rarely comes here for any purpose. Here too is a celebrated well in a deep dell, to which the religious of former years used to make pilgrimages to for the purpose of bathing or washing for the removal or cure of diseases. They are yet called holy wells and are often visited, as is the birthplace of Tennyson, by tourists. It would be difficult to imagine a more beautiful country than that part of Lincolnshire. Such lovely sequestered healthy spots. Here people attain great ages. I have copied every tombstone in the church yards of all over 70 years of age, and find that one-third of the whole obtain this age, after deducting the children. Many, quite many, are 80 and over, while many more are over 90. I think I have the names of over 25 who were 90 or over, some 92 to 99. I go on next Tuesday to Fattersall Castle, two miles from here, said to be the oldest and finest brick building in England, in account of which I will send you.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH

INSTANTLY relieves and permanently cures the most noxious disease in all its varying stages. It possesses a power over all diseases, and especially, herbs and barks in their essential form, from every fibrous combination, and in its great power, it is a safe and certain remedy. One short cut has found its way from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and it is now well known to be the standard remedy for the treatment of Catarrh. The proprietors have been called upon by great numbers to supply their remedy, and are cured by this remedy, and who have, at considerable expense, come to the city to ascertain the good news through the circle in which it moves. When you hear a wealthy gentleman of intelligence speak of "Sanford's Radical Cure," you may feel assured that it is an article of great value, and worthy to be called the "standard medical specific of the day."

The benefit I derive from it daily is to me
